6. Adequate treatment for Customers with disabilities and other special needs, even during tarmac delays

In Volaris, we make a huge effort to give our customers with disabilities or unaccompanied minors the service and care they need to enjoy their flight.

Note: It is important to notify us of any special needs when booking your flight, so we can give you the attention needed in the following cases:

- a. Medical oxygen for use on board the aircraft, if this service is needed during the flight;
- b. Carriage of an incubator, if this service can be used during the flight;
- c. Respirator use and plug in on board, if this service is needed on the flight;
- d. Accommodation for passengers that must travel on a stretcher, if this service is available on the flight;

- f. Provision by the carrier of hazardous materials packaging for a battery for a wheelchair or other assistive device;
- g. Transportation in a wheelchair that does not have an accessible lavatory.

The DOT has determined that passengers that identify themselves at the gate as being a person with a disability or that needs additional boarding time must have priority. They should show up in the boarding gate and advise about the pre-board need in order to have enough time and space, and to stow their accessibility equipment and sit down safely. Some of the services we provide are:

- Wheelchairs at airports before boarding and after landing.
- Assistance for:
 - Unaccompanied minors* and seniors*
 - People with physical, visual, hearing, and cognitive disabilities

*Service provided for an established fee

7. Attend our customer’s essential needs during tarmac delays

Volaris has a plan in place for tarmac delays that applies to all international flights with United States as origin or destiny. This plan applies to flights with departures, arrivals or diverted from their original destination.

Volaris’ Tarmac Delay Contingency Plan sticks to the Customer Service requirements that the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) has established through 14 CFR part 259 and can be viewed in the following link:

<https://www.ecfr.gov/cgi-bin/textidx?SID=01b76497f6fd1ac4235e83c83d78ae32&mc=true&node=pt14.4.259&rgn=div5>

8. Fair and consistency customer attention in case of denied boarding due to an overbooked flight

Customers denied boarding due to an overbooked flight, will be compensated and treated fairly and consistently.

In case of overbooked flights, Volaris will proceed with the following:

- We ask people to volunteer to change their seats and take the next flight for compensation (which will be determined by the applicable laws).
- If there are no volunteers, according to boarding priority criteria, Volaris reserves the right to deny boarding in accordance to the boarding criteria (the last customer that checked-in would be removed from the flight).
- Volaris will respond according to the applicable laws.

Compensations will depend on the time that Volaris takes to fix the corresponding arrangements to transport clients to their destination:

- From 0 to 1 hour: no compensation is given
- 4 hours: 200% of the fare, with a limit of $775 USD
- More than 4 hours: 400% of the fare, with a limit of $1,550 USD

For the purpose of compensation, DOT has considered that “fare” should be interpreted as the price paid for the air transportation, including taxes and other charges. Additionally, it has been interpreted that those optional services for which the passenger opted-in (ancillaries) should be compensated completely.
